> A Trick of Actors. Most people know that the memory may be easily confused by learning a passage in two or three different ways, or by having once heard an incorrect form of giving it. Working on this principle, actors are fond of putting stumbling blocks in one another's way. A stock joke, dear to the hearts of all players, is the regular thing to be inflicted upon a beginner in the first act of "Richard III." It is in the scene where the coffin of Henry VI is borne across the stage. One of the men who carry it has been raised from the position of supernumerary to his first speaksolitary cartridge, and, with the muzzle all but touching him, I fired behind the Before the performance, it is usual for impress him with the enormous difficulties of delivering that sentence correctly.
